Annual HANAC Gala Marks 40 Years of Exceptional Community Service

By Constantine S. Sarris
TNS Staff Writer

NEW YORK — The Helenic National Federation of America celebrated its 40th anniversary gala at Madison Square Garden on Saturday, Nov. 3.

The event featured several honorees, including the New York City Councilman Peter Vallone, Jr. and Assemblyman Aravella Simotas.

The gala also saluted the leadership of Basile Katsikis, an accomplished performer who is a co-founder of the Manhattan-based Hellenic American Comedy Unit (HACU).

Aphrodite Skoulas, President of the National Hellenic Philoptochos (NPHC) 1020 Staff

NEW YORK — The National Philoptochos Board of Directors, in concert with the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, is putting the spotlight on its 100th anniversary.

This year’s celebration will be marked by a number of events, including a gala celebration in New York City on May 12, 2013.

The NPHC is one of the oldest philanthropic organizations in the United States.

The organization was established in 1913 and currently has more than 1,000 chapters across the country.

In 2008, the organization announced its Centennial Campaign, which included a goal of raising $50 million.

As of March 2013, the campaign had raised approximately $35 million.

The National Philoptochos Hosts Fundraiser to Benefit the People of Greece

When it was time for the ceremony three, Basile apparently forgot — but not for long — over his remarks, explained: “My father was born in 1906. I am named after him because you know why I have issues with my father.”

But there were not only Greek issues at the box. A moment of silence marked the 100th anniversary of the Greek Revolution, which ended the Ottoman Empire and led to the crowning of Queen Amalia.

The National Philoptochos is a non-profit organization that provides community services and support to people in need, with a focus on helping Greeks in need.

The organization is known for its charitable work, including providing food, clothing, and medical assistance to those in need.

The National Philoptochos also sponsors annual events, such as the Philoptochos Social Work Awards and the National Philoptochos Convention.

Additionally, the organization supports the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, which provides spiritual and religious support to Greeks in the United States.

The organization’s headquarters are located in New York City, and it has chapters in many other cities across the United States.

An Interview with Andrew S. Moulos

When asked what it means to be a Greek-American, he replied: “It means being proud of our heritage and culture, and passing it on to the next generation.”

He added: “We should always remember where we came from and what our ancestors did for us. It’s important to be proud of our past and our present.”

The National Philoptochos is a proud supporter of these values and continues to work towards a better future for all Greeks and Greek-Americans.

Annual HANAC Gala Marks 40 Years of Exceptional Community Service

By Constantine S. Sarris
TNS Staff Writer

NEW YORK — The Helenic National Federation of America celebrated its 40th anniversary gala at Madison Square Garden on Saturday, Nov. 3.

The event featured several honorees, including the New York City Councilman Peter Vallone, Jr. and Assemblyman Aravella Simotas.

The gala also saluted the leadership of Basile Katsikis, an accomplished performer who is a co-founder of the Manhattan-based Hellenic American Comedy Unit (HACU).

Aphrodite Skoulas, President of the National Hellenic Philoptochos (NPHC) 1020 Staff

NEW YORK — The National Philoptochos Board of Directors, in concert with the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, is putting the spotlight on its 100th anniversary.

This year’s celebration will be marked by a number of events, including a gala celebration in New York City on May 12, 2013.

The NPHC is one of the oldest philanthropic organizations in the United States.

The organization was established in 1913 and currently has more than 1,000 chapters across the country.

In 2008, the organization announced its Centennial Campaign, which included a goal of raising $50 million.

As of March 2013, the campaign had raised approximately $35 million.

The National Philoptochos Hosts Fundraiser to Benefit the People of Greece

When it was time for the ceremony three, Basile apparently forgot — but not for long — over his remarks, explained: “My father was born in 1906. I am named after him because you know why I have issues with my father.”

But there were not only Greek issues at the box. A moment of silence marked the 100th anniversary of the Greek Revolution, which ended the Ottoman Empire and led to the crowning of Queen Amalia.

The National Philoptochos is a non-profit organization that provides community services and support to people in need, with a focus on helping Greeks in need.

The organization is known for its charitable work, including providing food, clothing, and medical assistance to those in need.

The National Philoptochos also sponsors annual events, such as the Philoptochos Social Work Awards and the National Philoptochos Convention.

Additionally, the organization supports the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, which provides spiritual and religious support to Greeks in the United States.

The organization’s headquarters are located in New York City, and it has chapters in many other cities across the United States.

An Interview with Andrew S. Moulos

When asked what it means to be a Greek-American, he replied: “It means being proud of our heritage and culture, and passing it on to the next generation.”

He added: “We should always remember where we came from and what our ancestors did for us. It’s important to be proud of our past and our present.”

The National Philoptochos is a proud supporter of these values and continues to work towards a better future for all Greeks and Greek-Americans.

Annual HANAC Gala Marks 40 Years of Exceptional Community Service

By Constantine S. Sarris
TNS Staff Writer

NEW YORK — The Helenic National Federation of America celebrated its 40th anniversary gala at Madison Square Garden on Saturday, Nov. 3.

The event featured several honorees, including the New York City Councilman Peter Vallone, Jr. and Assemblyman Aravella Simotas.

The gala also saluted the leadership of Basile Katsikis, an accomplished performer who is a co-founder of the Manhattan-based Hellenic American Comedy Unit (HACU).

Aphrodite Skoulas, President of the National Hellenic Philoptochos (NPHC) 1020 Staff

NEW YORK — The National Philoptochos Board of Directors, in concert with the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, is putting the spotlight on its 100th anniversary.

This year’s celebration will be marked by a number of events, including a gala celebration in New York City on May 12, 2013.

The NPHC is one of the oldest philanthropic organizations in the United States.

The organization was established in 1913 and currently has more than 1,000 chapters across the country.

In 2008, the organization announced its Centennial Campaign, which included a goal of raising $50 million.

As of March 2013, the campaign had raised approximately $35 million.

The National Philoptochos Hosts Fundraiser to Benefit the People of Greece

When it was time for the ceremony three, Basile apparently forgot — but not for long — over his remarks, explained: “My father was born in 1906. I am named after him because you know why I have issues with my father.”

But there were not only Greek issues at the box. A moment of silence marked the 100th anniversary of the Greek Revolution, which ended the Ottoman Empire and led to the crowning of Queen Amalia.

The National Philoptochos is a non-profit organization that provides community services and support to people in need, with a focus on helping Greeks in need.

The organization is known for its charitable work, including providing food, clothing, and medical assistance to those in need.

The National Philoptochos also sponsors annual events, such as the Philoptochos Social Work Awards and the National Philoptochos Convention.

Additionally, the organization supports the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, which provides spiritual and religious support to Greeks in the United States.

The organization’s headquarters are located in New York City, and it has chapters in many other cities across the United States.

An Interview with Andrew S. Moulos

When asked what it means to be a Greek-American, he replied: “It means being proud of our heritage and culture, and passing it on to the next generation.”

He added: “We should always remember where we came from and what our ancestors did for us. It’s important to be proud of our past and our present.”

The National Philoptochos is a proud supporter of these values and continues to work towards a better future for all Greeks and Greek-Americans.

Annual HANAC Gala Marks 40 Years of Exceptional Community Service

By Constantine S. Sarris
TNS Staff Writer

NEW YORK — The Helenic National Federation of America celebrated its 40th anniversary gala at Madison Square Garden on Saturday, Nov. 3.

The event featured several honorees, including the New York City Councilman Peter Vallone, Jr. and Assemblyman Aravella Simotas.

The gala also saluted the leadership of Basile Katsikis, an accomplished performer who is a co-founder of the Manhattan-based Hellenic American Comedy Unit (HACU).

Aphrodite Skoulas, President of the National Hellenic Philoptochos (NPHC) 1020 Staff

NEW YORK — The National Philoptochos Board of Directors, in concert with the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, is putting the spotlight on its 100th anniversary.

This year’s celebration will be marked by a number of events, including a gala celebration in New York City on May 12, 2013.

The NPHC is one of the oldest philanthropic organizations in the United States.

The organization was established in 1913 and currently has more than 1,000 chapters across the country.

In 2008, the organization announced its Centennial Campaign, which included a goal of raising $50 million.

As of March 2013, the campaign had raised approximately $35 million.

The National Philoptochos Hosts Fundraiser to Benefit the People of Greece

When it was time for the ceremony three, Basile apparently forgot — but not for long — over his remarks, explained: “My father was born in 1906. I am named after him because you know why I have issues with my father.”

But there were not only Greek issues at the box. A moment of silence marked the 100th anniversary of the Greek Revolution, which ended the Ottoman Empire and led to the crowning of Queen Amalia.

The National Philoptochos is a non-profit organization that provides community services and support to people in need, with a focus on helping Greeks in need.

The organization is known for its charitable work, including providing food, clothing, and medical assistance to those in need.

The National Philoptochos also sponsors annual events, such as the Philoptochos Social Work Awards and the National Philoptochos Convention.

Additionally, the organization supports the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, which provides spiritual and religious support to Greeks in the United States.

The organization’s headquarters are located in New York City, and it has chapters in many other cities across the United States.

An Interview with Andrew S. Moulos

When asked what it means to be a Greek-American, he replied: “It means being proud of our heritage and culture, and passing it on to the next generation.”

He added: “We should always remember where we came from and what our ancestors did for us. It’s important to be proud of our past and our present.”

The National Philoptochos is a proud supporter of these values and continues to work towards a better future for all Greeks and Greek-Americans.